

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

According to the invention there is provided a face gear (10) for use in transmitting power between two shafts which are perpendicular to each other in an offset state, characterized 5 in that tooth portions of the face gear are formed by a numerically controlled milling machine.